Bataan Peninsula State University 2021

Preface

These Philippine Bidding Documents (PBDs) for the procurement of Goods through Competitive Bidding have been prepared by the Government of the Philippines for use by any branch, constitutional commission or office, agency, department, bureau, office, or instrumentality of the Government of the Philippines, National Government Agencies, including Government-Owned and/or Controlled Corporations, Government Financing Institutions, State Universities and Colleges, and Local Government Unit. The procedures and practices presented in this document have been developed through broad experience, and are for mandatory use in projects that are financed in whole or in part by the Government of the Philippines or any foreign government/foreign or international financing institution in accordance with the provisions of the 2016 revised Implementing Rules and Regulations of Republic Act No. 9184.

The Bidding Documents shall clearly and adequately define, among others: (i) the objectives, scope, and expected outputs and/or results of the proposed contract or Framework Agreement, as the case may be; (ii) the eligibility requirements of Bidders; (iii) the expected contract or Framework Agreement duration, the estimated quantity in the case of procurement of goods, delivery schedule and/or time frame; and (iv) the obligations, duties, and/or functions of the winning bidder.

Care should be taken to check the relevance of the provisions of the PBDs against the requirements of the specific Goods to be procured. If duplication of a subject is inevitable in other sections of the document prepared by the Procuring Entity, care must be exercised to avoid contradictions between clauses dealing with the same matter.

Moreover, each section is prepared with notes intended only as information for the Procuring Entity or the person drafting the Bidding Documents. They shall not be included in the final documents. The following general directions should be observed when using the documents:

- a. All the documents listed in the Table of Contents are normally required for the procurement of Goods. However, they should be adapted as necessary to the circumstances of the particular Procurement Project.
- b. Specific details, such as the "name of the Procuring Entity" and "address for bid submission," should be furnished in the Instructions to Bidders, Bid Data Sheet, and Special Conditions of Contract. The final documents should contain neither blank spaces nor options.
- c. This Preface and the footnotes or notes in italics included in the Invitation to Bid, Bid Data Sheet, General Conditions of Contract, Special Conditions of Contract, Schedule of Requirements, and Specifications are not part of the text of the final document, although they contain instructions that the Procuring Entity should strictly follow.

- d. The cover should be modified as required to identify the Bidding Documents as to the Procurement Project, Project Identification Number, and Procuring Entity, in addition to the date of issue.
- e. Modifications for specific Procurement Project details should be provided in the Special Conditions of Contract as amendments to the Conditions of Contract. For easy completion, whenever reference has to be made to specific clauses in the Bid Data Sheet or Special Conditions of Contract, these terms shall be printed in bold typeface on Sections I (Instructions to Bidders) and III (General Conditions of Contract), respectively.
- f. For guidelines on the use of Bidding Forms and the procurement of Foreign-Assisted Projects, these will be covered by a separate issuance of the Government Procurement Policy Board.

SOFTWARE:

The information Security Management System must conform to the requirements of ISO/IEC 27001 The Information Security Management System (ISMS), is to appropriately preserve privacy, confidentiality, integrity, and availability (CIA) of the manufacturers information assets, including, but not limited to, its and its clients' intellectual property.

The software used should leverage FIPS 140-2 compliant encryption standards. All data is in transit using TLS. HTTPS is required for all services, including vendors's public website and cloud applications. Additionally, part files are protected with data encryption at rest by encrypting the Amazon Web Services (AWS) Simple Storage Service (S3) buckets where part files are stored using AES-256. Vendors must implement controls to appropriately limit the creation, storage, usage, and deletion of encryption keys.

All print files sent to printers are formatted as encrypted format. containing details about the part geometry, orientation, and fiber and material layout. This means that encrypted files transferred from software to printers by USB mass storage devices are secured via encryption.

The slicing software provides users with the option to enable two-factor authentication (2FA) for additional security. The 2FA utilizes time-based one time passwords (TOTP) and can be configured using well known 2FA apps like Google Authenticator or Authy. User passwords are securely hashed, salted, and stored using AWS Cognito, which employs the SRP protocol.

The software development lifecycle (SDLC) employs manual code reviews and automated integration testing before each deployment. Several pre-release environments are used for quality assurance and testing prior to releasing any code to production. Vendor utilizes a continuous deployment model, which allows customers to immediately benefit from new functionality, vulnerability remediation, and bug fixes.

Section VII. Technical Specifications

Notes for Preparing the Technical Specifications

A set of precise and clear specifications is a prerequisite for Bidders to respond realistically and competitively to the requirements of the Procuring Entity without qualifying their Bids. In the context of Competitive Bidding, the specifications (e.g. production/delivery schedule, manpower requirements, and after-sales service/parts, descriptions of the lots or items) must be prepared to permit the widest possible competition and, at the same time, present a clear statement of the required standards of workmanship, materials, and performance of the goods and services to be procured. Only if this is done will the objectives of transparency, equity, efficiency, fairness, and economy in procurement be realized, responsiveness of bids be ensured, and the subsequent task of bid evaluation and post-qualification facilitated. The specifications should require that all items, materials and accessories to be included or incorporated in the goods be new, unused, and of the most recent or current models, and that they include or incorporate all recent improvements in design and materials unless otherwise provided in the Contract.

Samples of specifications from previous similar procurements are useful in this respect. The use of metric units is encouraged. Depending on the complexity of the goods and the repetitiveness of the type of procurement, it may be advantageous to standardize the General Technical Specifications and incorporate them in a separate subsection. The General Technical Specifications should cover all classes of workmanship, materials, and equipment commonly involved in manufacturing similar goods. Deletions or addenda should then adapt the General Technical Specifications to the particular procurement.

Care must be taken in drafting specifications to ensure that they are not restrictive. In the specification of standards for equipment, materials, and workmanship, recognized Philippine and international standards should be used as much as possible. Where other particular standards are used, whether national standards or other standards, the specifications should state that equipment, materials, and workmanship that meet other authoritative standards, and which ensure at least a substantially equal quality than the standards mentioned, will also be acceptable. The following clause may be inserted in the Special Conditions of Contract or the Technical Specifications.

Sample Clause: Equivalency of Standards and Codes

Wherever reference is made in the Technical Specifications to specific standards and codes to be met by the goods and materials to be furnished or tested, the provisions of the latest edition or revision of the relevant standards and codes shall apply, unless otherwise expressly stated in the Contract. Where such standards and codes are national or relate to a particular country or region, other authoritative standards that ensure substantial equivalence to the standards and codes specified will be acceptable.

Reference to brand name and catalogue number should be avoided as far as possible; where unavoidable they should always be followed by the words "or at least equivalent." References to brand names cannot be used when the funding source is the GOP.

Where appropriate, drawings, including site plans as required, may be furnished by the Procuring Entity with the Bidding Documents. Similarly, the Supplier may be requested to provide drawings or samples either with its Bid or for prior review by the Procuring Entity during contract execution.

Bidders are also required, as part of the technical specifications, to complete their statement of compliance demonstrating how the items comply with the specification.

	The Information Security Management System (ISMS), is to appropriately preserve privacy, confidentiality, integrity, and availability (CIA) of the manufacturers information assets, including, but not limited to, its and its clients' intellectual property.

The software used should leverage FIPS 140-2 compliant encryption standards. All data is in transit using TLS. HTTPS is required for all services, including vendors's public website and cloud applications. Additionally, part files are protected with data encryption at rest by encrypting the Amazon Web Services (AWS) Simple Storage Service (S3) buckets where part files are stored using AES-256. Vendors must implement controls to appropriately limit the creation, storage, usage, and deletion of encryption keys.

All print files sent to printers are formatted as encrypted format. containing details about the part geometry, orientation, and fiber and material layout. This means that encrypted files transferred from software to printers by USB mass storage devices are secured via encryption.

The slicing software provides users with the option to enable two-factor authentication (2FA) for additional security. The 2FA utilizes time-based one time passwords (TOTP) and can be configured using well known 2FA apps like Google Authenticator or Authy. User passwords are securely hashed, salted, and stored using AWS Cognito, which employs the SRP protocol.

The software development lifecycle (SDLC) employs manual code reviews and automated integration testing before each deployment. Several pre-release environments are used for quality assurance and testing prior to releasing any code to production. Vendor utilizes a continuous deployment model, which allows customers to immediately benefit from new functionality, vulnerability remediation, and bug fixes.

The 3D printing software must be able to import 3D models from any major CAD software in STL format

The 3D Printing software must include slicing tools with integrity checking for 3D printing

The 3D printing software must be able to monitor and control the printing parameters, including layer thickness, infill type and material choice

The software must be able to calculate printing time and consumables usage during preprocessing of each print job.

The software must be able to calculate the cost of each part during preprocessing of each print job

The software must be able to show the continuous fibre routing in 2d and 3d, so that it can be manipulated
